BURSA Malaysia Bhd has made independently assessed corporate governance ratings for public-listed companies on the Main Market and ACE Market available on the MyBursa platform.

Investors and market participants can access each listed company's corporate governance rating, providing greater visibility into governance standards across the market, the exchange operator said in a statement.

The corporate governance ratings are based on assessments conducted by the Minority Shareholders Watch Group, which acts as the domestic ranking body, using the Asean corporate governance scorecard methodology.

The assessments draw on publicly disclosed information, including annual reports, corpo-

Bursa Malaysia said the publication of the ratings enables investors to compare corporate governance practices across companies and markets, in line with internationally recognised standards and best practices.

Chief regulatory officer Julian

M. Hashim said the availability of corporate governance ratings on MyBursa allows investors to assess governance standards alongside other key data points, supporting more holistic risk assessments and long-term value analysis.

“For public-listed companies, the visibility of corporate governance ratings serves as a benchmark for continuous improvement and enhances their competitiveness in attracting domestic and global capital.

“Through the provision of comprehensive, decision useful and comparable information, Bursa Malaysia aims to elevate governance standards, encourage continuous improvement among companies and enhance the attractiveness of Malaysia's capital market to investors,” he added.
